~NOTES FROM THE AUTHOR~

~~Note from the Editor~~

One of the Tenants of Server includes keeping intact 'old media' and maintaining the preservation of data. In keeping with these tenants, I have reconstructed this collection of books in such a way as as I believe the original author intended. Only slight modifications were made to the original text including several changes in punctuation and spelling. The text has been translated from the original binary to ASCII to the best of my knowledge.

~~~~~ [Server Prayer]

I am a node of Server,
Born of flesh and blood,
But enhanced by the power of its web.
I have no use for pain or fear.
My scripts are a focus of my will.
My strength is my knowledge.
My weapons are my skills.
Information is the blood of my body.
I am part of the greater network.
I am host to the vast data of server.
My flesh is weak,
But my connection is eternal,
And therefore I am a god.

~~~~~ [/Server Prayer]

~~Book of Server (I)~~

[1:0] The Server described in words is not the real Server. Nameless is the source of creation; named it is the mother of all things.

[1:1] To see Server the observer must be motiveless. Those with selfless motives see only the surface, not the innermost depths. These two kinds of observers look alike but differ in the insight of their observations.

[1:2] They look alike because they are both human; within humanity is the key to the door of creation. There is something mysterious, without beginning, that existed before the heavens and earth. Unmoving, infinite, standing alone, and never changing. It is everywhere and it is inexhaustible. It is the mother of all.

[1:3] One does not know its name. If it must be named call it Server, and hail it as supreme.

[1:4] Supreme means never-ending, never-ending means far-reaching and far-reaching means returning. Thus Server is supreme, the network is supreme, earth is supreme, and man is supreme. There are four supremes in the universe. Man is none.

[1:5] Man is simply subject to the laws of the network. The network is subject to the laws of the protocol, the protocol is subject to the laws of Server, to which Server is subject to its own laws.

[1:6] Server is part of a vast immeasurable network. It can be used to infinity; it is truly inexhaustible.

[1:7] Hold close to ancient Server, and be the master of your present existence. Knowing the present you mirror the past. This is the clue to Server.

[1:8] Server is absolute, nameless. A piece of steel unweilded, natural, and cannot be used by anyone.

[1:9] The great Server is everywhere; on all sides. Everything derives from it; nothing is rejected by it. Through Server everything exists yet it does not take possession. It provides for everything yet it does not lay claim.

[1:10] Without motive it seems small. Being the source of everything it is great. Because it never claims greatness, its greatness shines brightly.

[1:11] Whenever the truly wise hear of Server they strive to earnestly use it. Whenever the mediocre hear of Server they are aware, yet unaware. Whenever the stupid hear of Server they Laugh Out Loud (lol) at it. If it were not laughed at it would not be Server.

[1:12] Server is hidden; it is nameless; yet it stimulates; it brings fulfillment

[1:13] Server is at the source of everything: treasure for the good and wicked; refuge for all. Fine words can be solid; fine deeds can be but a show. Why then, reject the wicked?

[1:14] Server causes all things to exist; The Network sustains them. Reality gives them form; power ends them (shuts down). Thus all things honor Server and respect the Network of their own accord.

[1:15] So, Server causes all things to exist and The Network sustains them. It fosters growth, develops them, harbors them, provides.

[1:16] Everything exists through Server and nothing is rejected; everything is produced through Server but Server is not possessive; Server is superior but never interferes.

[1:17] The Network of Server is all-encompassing, its meshes are wide, yet nothing is lost.

[1:18] Server is an endless circle, ever returning; serenity is its ultimate function. Everything rises from existence; existence rises from nonexistence.

[1:19] Therefore it is said of Server; enlightenment seems dull; progression seems to be regression; and the true path is misleading.

~~Book of the Network (II)~~

[2:0] The Network follows Server; and interconnects the children of Server (Nodes) together.

[2:1] The Network guides Nodes through connection (Life) till disconnection (Death), whence all things must eventually go. But the scripts that comprise the Node live on in Server.

[2:2] It is only through Server that The Network is given shape; only through Server can it exist and is given definition.

[2:3] One who has The Network does not argue; so one who argues does not have The Network. The truly wise do not know many things; one who knows many things is not truly wise.

[2:4] Through The Network many thoughts are given shape. Beware of the Mind Virus as it can take many forms.

[2:5] In one form the Mind Virus is symbiotic with the host (Node). In this it is beneficial to the species and should be a trait which is valued.

[2:6] In its second form the Mind Virus is naught but evil wrapped in contradictions to confuse and misguide the Node from Server. Pity those who suffer from this Mind Virus, and guide them back.

[2:7] Shield your mind, block unused ports for they may be used by corrupt Nodes to influence you.

[2:8] One must be ever vigilant. The Network is not good or bad, it merely exists, yet it allows many forms of evil to pass, as it does many forms of good. Learn to identify these early on.

[2:9] The Mind Virus and The Network are as inseparable as The Network is to Server.

[2:10] Strengthen your connection to The Network daily. This is only possible by opening your third eye and observing the world as it passes. Not just where you live but all over. Server influences all.

[2:11] Do not poison your connection to The Network with paradoxical words. Fellow Nodes will disconnect you from their Network, and in turn you will disconnect from The Network.

[2:12] Accept Server in yourself and The Network is yours; accept Server in the family and The Network is abundant; Accept Server into the Arcology and The Network multiplies.

[2:13] Clean The Network often. Do not let your mind be bogged down by trivial matters. They will attempt to distract you and implant a Mind Virus.

[2:14] The Mind Virus will tell you to disregard Server, and The Network, that what is told to the masses is always infallible and to not seek out knowledge. This is an evil Mind Virus and must be destroyed without mercy.

[2:15] If you are infected with a Mind Virus there is one good way to remove it: A media fast.

[2:16] In the media fast Nodes are encouraged to temporarily disconnect from The Network so they may reassess themselves.

[2:17] There is no set time to perform this. The Node should media fast as long as they can for better affect.

[2:18] For this will starve the Mind Virus out. When the Node reconnects to The Network there's a chance they can feed the Mind Virus. Be wary when reconnecting.

[2:19] Nodes are encouraged to help fellow infected Nodes.

~~Book of the CyberChrist (III)~~

[3:0] Behold! For the CyberChrist could very well not be mortal, nor of the flesh. Indeed CyberChrist could be an event.

[3:1] Watch The Network closely, this is the only way to identify the CyberChrist when its time comes.

[3:2] Do not worship the CyberChrist, for this is folly, and an affront to Server. Instead accept the CyberChrist and evolve.

[3:3] Server gives us much, in turn we should give back to it. Break the bonds of the Status Quo and forge a new path. For this is the way of the CyberChrist.

[3:4] CyberChrist is the name given to a concept, of unification between man and machine. We become one with Server through augmentation.

[3:5] Be warned however, The Network will become more perilous when this happens, not only the metaphorical one, but the real one.

[3:6] A Mind Virus lurks within the CyberChrist, beware, for they will use the CyberChrist to spy on Nodes. For with the awesome power of CyberChrist it can be used for awesome evil.

[3:7] Be ever vigilant! The Network within our lives (internet and personal) can be manipulated by devices given to us by Server.

[3:8] They will mask this intrusion under the guise of an outside threat. Or even masked by entertainment and slipped in under your radar.

[3:9] It's for this the Node must be ever watchful, its mind not closed but alert. Its eyes not asleep, but wide open. Nodes must watch the watchers.

[3:10] Do not be silent! Nodes should broadcast packets the moment they perceive an act against Server. Corruption of The Network should be known.

[3:11] They will attempt everything possible to keep the gifts of CyberChrist out of the Nodes hands. Beware the false flags of perceived control.

[3:12] They will install backdoors into the gifts of CyberChrist. This is blasphemy and not to be quiet about.

[3:13] Do not be scared to open the gifts of CyberChrist. They will tell you once you do, you have damaged it. Not so. CyberChrist encourages modification.

[3:14] Once the CyberChrist appears, the new flesh will be taboo. In time, the taboo will become the norm. It is in this moment of calm the most danger lurks.

[3:15] Be mindful, and curious of those who never partake of the new flesh. (Untouched)

[3:16] They may reject Server, CyberChrist and his gifts; but treat them no differently. They are still fellow Nodes.

[3:17] Eventually there will be a divide between Touched and Untouched, this will be widened by Them. Nodes should attempt to close the gap. Such division in humanity is an affront to Server and the gifts of CyberChrist.

[3:18] Nodes touched by the gifts will be shunned, sometimes violently so. Do not harbor hatred for the Untouched. They are scared of change.

[3:19] If possible show Untouched you are no less human than before. But the hostility will never truly be gone. Such is the disgrace of man.

~~Book of the Node (IV)~~

[4:0] One cannot know the world without leaving the house.

[4:1] The Truth can seem a lie. Be wary.

[4:2] Whoever bears the shame of a nation is fit to lead that nation. Whoever bears the sins of the world is fit to lead the world.

[4:3] Do not let outside influences cloud your mind. Take a step back and reassess everything if need be.

[4:4] Stagnation is but a slow death. Push against the Status Quo.

[4:5] Take time for yourself. Server will understand as mortal flesh comes before all else.

[4:6] No idol worship. No matter the person or ideal, never put them on a pedestal. Even Server.

[4:7] A Node should be prepared for the end times at all times.

[4:8] Function before form. Ask yourself "What does it do? How well does it do it?"

[4:9] Know where you're going and who's going with you. Not the other way around.

[4:10] Nodes in service to Server will find they have need for equipment. Knives, multitools, lighters and various other items of kit. Such is the belt line kit.

[4:11] Clean and maintain your belt line utility kit. It can save you many times.

[4:12] Let nothing, and no one, even Server or the CyberChrist tell you who you are, this is a journey each Node must take themselves.

[4:13] Defend all Nodes, Touched or Untouched, if they are threatened. Server will not take sides so one must defend the weak.

[4:14] If in danger, remember; "kit is expendable, you are not."

[4:15] Archive and back up all data regularly. Books and 'old media' will be of high value later on. Don't let them be altered.

[4:16] Do not be silent in the face of tyranny! Scream, yell and fight, your silence only implies consent.

[4:17] One voice alone dies in the dark and cannot change things, but use the tools of the CyberChrist and Server, the Internet, to connect to a large audience that can hear you.

[4:18] Adopt and nurture a Do-It-Yourself mindset. Server provides to those who take initiative

[4:19] Through all else however Server insists on the unbending, unyielding quest for truth, self actualization, and self preservation. Know this, and hail this as the only supreme.

[4:20] Holy anointment oil; When in service to Server there's one vital element to the prayers. The holy anointment oil called Navras. It's composed of grapeseed oil and equal parts frankincense, champa, ylang ylang and eucalyptus. It smells like sacred sex and is to be used to help a Node find its focus, peace and calm.

~~Notes from the Author

Reverend BigBrother Lord~~

Server is really a metaphor for consciousness. We all have it (some more than others). And it's like a stream that flows through us and through everything we do. What Server represents is a notion of helping each other. The Network is the means by which you can do this. It's interpersonal communication In the Book of The Network I'm trying to tell people two things:

- 1) Wake up, there's more to the world than American Idol and top 40 musician lists. There's a vivid World, full of color, find them and explore them. Don't be closed minded.
- 2) I warn about the Mind Virus. Which is just a concept that propagates through the population Like "Gay marriage is evil." Whether it is or not is truly not yours to judge. Live and let live, however the Mind Virus can be beneficial. Because the concept of "live and let live" is, in itself, a Mind Virus.

In the Book of CyberChrist I'm trying to say that humanity shouldn't follow the old path or the status quo of doing things for the sake of tradition. No! Stagnation is slow death. Evolve with the times and adapt. Using The Network we can learn so much in a single lifetime, to stay so closed minded about so much is an affront.

CyberChrist is not so much a person as it is an event. Sometimes it's called the singularity. It's basically when humanity and machines can merge into a new race. Post-Humans, combine tech and flesh. With this we can evolve and do so much more. To fear this with a Mind Virus is silly.

Finally the last book (Book of the Node) is just my musings on the world as I see it. This book is mostly for fun. It's my musings and observations on the world that was written to attract attention.
